SOCIETY DANCE AT THE MOANA PROVES POPULAR

Marco and Fanchon Wolff Give Entertaining Exhibition at Dinner-Dance

The large number of society folk of Honolulu who attended the dinner-dance given by the management of the Moana hotel last night were well pleased with the entertainment. Manager Thiele spared no efforts in making the affair a success. Marco and Fanchon Wolff, two society ballroom dancers of the east, showed grace and skill in dances of their own invention. During the dinner Mr. Wolff played a number of violin selections and Miss Wolff received many ovations with her clever songs. Her voice was not strong enough to carry in the large diningroom of the Moana so she folded a sheet of music in the form of a megaphone. It took. After the dinner a few exhibition dances were given by the couple, accompanied by Mr. Young on the piano. Afterwards they were introduced to some of the guests and to the strains of Kaal's orchestra fitted in and out the dancing couples. Many very handsome gowns were worn, having been made especially for the occasion.
